Many people are often unaware of what they need to know about the power of the law in business. For those who are not familiar with how business law and legal issues affect you, here is how it works and what it means to you in business. A business, whether an individual, corporation or other entity is and always has been controlled by what is called legal ownership. Every company has owners. If you are an employee of a company, you have an employment contract with an employer which in essence states that you will work for the company for a certain amount of time and the employer will pay you for that work. Some companies may say they own you, not the other way around. Employees are not employees of a company, but rather employees of someone else's company. If you want to be the employee of one company, but you are really working for another company, you can face legal issues with either company. The right to due process Conspiracy Tort Civil Rights Importance of contracts As all contracts or agreements are subject to the rules of contract law which are backed by the law, it is important to understand that the entire legal system rests on the system of contract law. These legal principles are in place to uphold the ability to make agreements that are treated as valid contracts and to be bound to those agreements. The rules of contract law exist to protect business agreements from being deemed null or void if the rules are not followed. Right to due process Contract law does not include a right to due process to challenge an employee's terms of employment. Tort Law Conspiracy Tort Law Tort Law says that if another person or business has an act or a legal injury that damages you, that action or injury can be the basis for civil liability for damages. For example, if you bought a new laptop and then found that there was a virus in the program of the computer software that runs the system, it may be the case that you were damaged. If you did not know that the software had a virus, but later learned that it was defective or had a virus, you could make a claim against the hardware company or the software company. Conspiracy Conspiracy or Breach of contract law says that if two or more people are conspiring to cause injury to someone else, this may be considered the conduct of a tort or the violation
